

“I am committed to helping people focus on their hearts. ”

About Preeti Dube, MD

Dr. Preeti Dube is committed to helping people focus on their hearts. Her passion for sharing her knowledge with patients, along with her warm manner, make her an effective ambassador for heart health. Dr. Dube's medical career started in Mumbai, India. There she earned her medical degree from Grant Medical College and graduated at the top of her class. Her expertise grew during her Internal Medicine residency at SUNY Upstate University Hospital. As a teaching resident at that hospital, she received a treasured teaching skills award from her students. Before joining JenCare, she was carrying out a cardiology fellowship at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center.
