

“Patients deserve the best I have to give. Clear communication, compassion and trust are keys to quality care. ”

About Ruby M. Tucker, MD

Throughout her medical career, Dr. Ruby Tucker has seen first-hand how far a little compassion can go to improve patients' health and well-being. "Patients deserve the best I have to give," she says. "Because I'm responsible for the full scope of their care, I have to have a strong connection with them. I take time to get to know my patients and talk to them about their health, their family and all the other things that concern them. Clear communication, compassion and trust are keys to quality care. When my patients feel comfortable and as if they matter, they are able to achieve their best level of health."
