“Seniors have special needs as they grow older and need to understand how to best take care of their health. My patients know they can depend on me to be there for them. ”

About Mihir Majmundar, MD

"I'm all about helping my patients holistically," says Dr. Majmundar. "I'm not only looking after their physical health but their emotional health, too. Seniors have special needs as they grow older and need to understand how to best take care of their health. My patients know they can depend on me to be there for them. They've given so much to others over their lifetimes. I want to give back to them by giving them the best healthcare possible. I don't talk at my patients. I spend time with my patients and really listen to them. It's the only way to build a good doctor and patient relationship."
