

“Communication, for me, is very important.”

About Gabriel Vargas-Bodas, MD

Dr. Gabriel Vargas-Bodas grew up listening to his father's stories as a physician every night, which inspired him to pursue a career in medicine. “The memories have been with me always,” he says. He adds that he wanted to emulate his father and care for the senior population in a way that maintains their dignity. He strives to ensure patients can talk to him “in a safe and secure way.” He prioritizes honesty and empathy in his practice. “Communication, for me, is very important,” he says.

In Gabriel's free time, he can be found working in the garden, painting minatures, or traveling. He is also an avid reader and enjoys reading anything from fiction and fantasy to history, politics, and humanities.
