

“My favorite part of being a doctor is the interactions—getting to know patients and their unique challenges. Seniors are our greatest generation and deserve our best!”

About Danita Anderson,

Dr. Danita Anderson’s interest in healthcare began when she was just five years old. With a passion for learning and helping others, she’s always enjoyed guiding people to better health. “My favorite part of being a doctor is the interactions—getting to know patients and their unique challenges,” Dr. Anderson says. “I also love teaching them and hearing the wealth of knowledge many of my senior patients share. Seniors are our greatest generation and deserve our best!” she adds.

In her time off, Dr. Anderson likes to watch movies, follow the New Orleans Saints, read novels, and travel with her extended family. Being roller coaster enthusiasts, they look forward to theme park adventures each year in Orlando.
