“My favorite part is getting to know patients and seeing the joy on their faces when they reach their health goals.”

About Kendria Holt-Rogers, MD

A longtime interest in biology and helping others led Dr. Kendria Holt-Rogers to become a board-certified internal medicine doctor. Over the years, she has been providing compassionate care and education for patients in primary care and hospital settings. To make the best decisions about their care, Dr. Holt-Rogers works together with her patients. “My favorite part is getting to know them and seeing the joy on their faces when they reach their health goals,” Dr. Holt-Rogers says. “I especially enjoy conversations with my senior patients.”

In her down time, Dr. Holt-Rogers reads medical literature, collaborates with colleagues, and attends conferences. She also loves to spend time with her husband and five children.
