

“What matters most to my patients is what matters most to me.”

About Taimur Abbasi, MD

Referring to medicine as his “true calling,” Dr. Taimur Abbasi strives to offer patients “a safe space” while “guiding them to use their own potential to be their healthiest.” He says his grandparents inspired him to “honor through service.” Specializing in geriatrics, internal medicine, and nuclear cardiology, Dr. Abbasi values preventative care. He stresses that his highest priority is accommodating his patients’ concerns. “What matters most to them is what matters most to me,” Dr. Abbasi says.

He maintains membership in several professional societies and reads medical literature to keep up with advancements. Dr. Abbasi dedicates himself to an active lifestyle and has always wanted to travel to Palestine, Turkey, and Japan.
