About Stella Kamanu, MD, MPH

At a young age, Dr. Stella Kamanu knew she wanted to work in healthcare. She is passionate about preventative medicine and says her favorite part of being a physician is “the privilege of helping people when they are vulnerable and adding value to people’s lives.” Dr. Kamanu loves getting to know her patients and strives to “help them make informed decisions about their health.” If she could change anything about healthcare today, she would improve accessibility. She is honored to serve the senior population and “help them navigate complex healthcare systems.”

When not with patients, Dr. Kamanu loves spending quality time with her husband and daughters. She also enjoys playing scrabble and participating in medical missions.
