

About Rabia Alvi, MD

A “strong desire to serve others” led Dr. Rabia Alvi to pursue a career in healthcare. “This sense of calling was reinforced early in my medical training when I first had the opportunity to care for and emotionally connect with others,” she explains. Dr. Alvi likes educating her patients and empowering them to take control over their health. “It’s rewarding that I can make a difference in a patient’s level of independence, well-being, and quality of life,” she says. Empathy and active listening are key parts of her practice. If she could modify the current healthcare system, she would increase accessibility.

In her free time, Dr. Alvi loves spending time with her husband and kids. She also enjoys traveling and writing makeup blogs.
