

“The senior population has a lot of chronic diseases and complications. Specifically, they are a group of the population who need a lot of help regarding insurance, transportation, and benefits.”

About Frank Marrero Galban, MSN, FNP

Frank Marrero Galban knew he wanted to work in medicine soon after completing high school. He says he wants to “help those most in need of medical care.” He values preventative care and strives to offer compassionate, high-quality care. He enjoys connecting with patients and likes serving the senior population. “This is a population that has a lot of chronic diseases and complications. Specifically, they are a group of the population who need a lot of help regarding insurance, transportation, and benefits,” he explains. He studies daily to keep up with new medical advancements.

Spending time with family is extremely important to Frank Marrero Galban. In his free time, he also likes watching historical movies and reading the news.
