

“I find joy in striving to make sure my patients feel loved, heard, and appreciated while receiving efficient and effective healthcare.”

About Lynnae Edwards-Carolina, MD

Dr. Lynnae Edwards-Carolina’s desire to work in healthcare began as a child. She explains, “As I matured, my fascination with the human body and its intricate design transcended everything else.” Building relationships with patients is her favorite part of her profession. She takes pride in collaborating with and advocating for patients. “I find joy in striving to make sure my patients feel loved, heard, and appreciated while receiving efficient and effective healthcare,” she says. She explains that her connection with the senior population is a result of the close relationship she had with her grandparents.

In her free time, Dr. Edwards-Carolina enjoys cooking and spending time with family and friends. She also enjoys cutting hair.
