

“I effectively communicate with my patients, which helps them and their families understand their conditions, treatment options, and recovery expectations.”

About Shantrese Dupart, DO

Dr. Shantrese Dupart realized her interest in medicine at a young age. She is a huge believer in preventative care and health education. “I effectively communicate with my patients, which helps them and their families understand their conditions, treatment options, and recovery expectations,” she explains. She enjoys giving back to the senior population and wants “to offer them a safe place where they will receive quality care from a physician who cares.” She adds, “Having a physician to be there for you at all times will change the dynamics of how our patients interact with all healthcare professionals.”

In her free time, Dr. Dupart enjoys traveling, volunteering in the local community, and spending quality time with family.
