

“I am an old school doctor who likes to take his time and talk to people during a visit.”

About Taylor Robertson, DPM

Dr. Taylor Robertson feels honored to serve as “a source of healing and comfort for his patients. “I am privileged to take care of the feet, which are the tires of the human body,” he says. He adds, “If your feet don’t feel well, then the rest of your body doesn’t either.” He enjoys building genuine relationships with patients, explaining, “You don’t get to know someone without extended conversations.” He adds, “I am an old school doctor who likes to take his time and talk to people during a visit.” He especially enjoys working with seniors and learning from their wisdom.

Dr. Robertson loves kayaking, gardening, and volunteering at his daughter’s school in his free time. He also enjoys attending festivals.
