“I listen to my patients to determine what their needs are so I can address them and find resources to help them.”

About Keva Hoyt, FNP

Keva Hoyt chose to pursue a career as a nurse practitioner to “make a difference in people’s lives and help them improve their health.” Building relationships with patients is her favorite part of her profession. “I listen to my patients to determine what their needs are so I can address them and find resources to help them,” she explains. She loves caring for her senior patients. “My patients will know if they can’t count on anyone else, they can always count on me,” she says. If she could, she would make healthcare more affordable and accessible.

Family is very important to Keva Hoyt. In her free time, she can be found playing video games with her husband and kids. She also enjoys going to church and relaxing on the beach.
