

“I like to build life long, meaningful relationships with patients.”

About Faryal Jafar, MD

My earliest memoires from my childhood that I recall now are those of this intense passion, curiosity of the field of medicine,” Dr. Faryal Jafar explains. Building “life long, meaningful relationships” with patients is her favorite part of her profession. She strives to remain personable and enjoys finding common interests with patients. She hopes to see healthcare embrace more of a focus on the senior population. “I am honored to be part of an establishment like ChenMed, where we are revolutioning healthcare and putting our seniors at the forefront of our medical mission,” she explains.

In her free time, Dr. Jafar enjoys traveling with her husband and daughter. She also loves photography and collecting art from her travels.
