

“I like to take care of my patients as a whole—healing the mind, body, and soul by promoting self-care.”

About Rabia Zia, MD

Dr. Rabia Zia chose to pursue a career in healthcare “to serve humanity and heal.” Her favorite part of being a physician is building relationships with patients and their families. Dr. Zia takes a “holistic, patient-centered” approach in her practice. She explains that she enjoys “connecting with patients on a human level” and learning what is important to them. “I like to take care of my patients as a whole—healing the mind, body, and soul by promoting self-care,” she explains. She loves gaining wisdom and life advice from her patients.

When not caring for patients, Dr. Zia enjoys spending time with family and friends, going to the park, and cooking. She also likes reading and writing poetry.
