“I want to ensure they know they can talk to me about any situations or concerns. I am here to provide high quality, valuable, and safe care to them.”

About Lashonda Harris, MSN, APRN, FNP-C

For as long as Lashonda Harris can remember, she has wanted to work in healthcare “to help people to feel better.” She adds, “I have always admired working with the senior population because I can learn valuable information from them. In addition, I enjoy hearing stories from their past.” She aims to treats the “whole person,” rather than focusing on just diseases. Empathy, sympathy, and active listening are key within her practice. She explains, “I want to ensure they know they can talk to me about any situations or concerns. I am here to provide high quality, valuable, and safe care to them.”

In her down time, Lashonda enjoys traveling, reading novels, baking, gardening, and exploring the trails near her home.
