“Being available to address their concerns makes a big impact.”

About Jason Holligan, MD

Dr. Jason Holligan has always wanted to serve the senior population — inspired by the grandparents who played a major role in his decision to pursue medicine and supported him throughout his journey. He builds strong bonds by seeing patients frequently, listening actively, and thoroughly assessing their medical concerns. "Being available to address their concerns makes a big impact," he says. For Dr. Holligan, showing up consistently is at the heart of great care — creating the trust and connection that allows patients to feel supported and valued.

When not with patients, Dr. Holligan enjoys hitting the gym, playing pickleball, and binging a new series on Netflix.
