“Spending time with my patients and knowing their family life connects me to them as their doctor.”

About Kimberly Carter, MD

Dr. Kimberly Carter is on a mission — to share medical knowledge in a way that is easy to understand so that people can live their happiest, healthiest lives. "I love working with seniors to live their best lives," she says. Dr. Carter builds deep connections with her patients through community involvement and by taking the time to truly know them — their family lives, their goals, and what matters most to them. "Spending time with my patients and knowing their family life connects me to them as their doctor," she says.

The impact of Dr. Carter's care is visible and tangible — patients coming off blood pressure medications, achieving weight loss, and improving their diabetes management. "It is so impactful to see them improve," she says. Watching her patients show up to appointments eager to track their progress and take charge of their health is what makes her work deeply fulfilling.

When not with patients, Dr. Carter enjoys playing tennis and attending church.
